Mitchell V. Charnley Award Nomination

The Midwest Broadcast Journalists Association is seeking nominees for the Mitchell V. Charnley Award. The award is the Association's highest honor, recognizing a lifetime of achievement by an individual working, or with roots, in the six-state region, who has made outstanding contributions to the field of broadcast journalism, either as a working journalist, a journalism educator or both.

Nominations are reviewed by the Association's executive committee. The recipient will be announced in the spring during the MBJA Banquet at the Midwest Journalism Conference.

Application Deadline: January 31

Send entry form to:
Midwest Broadcast Journalists Association
P.O. Box 838
Sturgis, SD 57785
Or email contact@midwestjournalists.org

Please attach:

- A brief essay explaining why you believe the nominee should receive the award.
- Any letters of support from individuals whose lives and careers benefitted from the work of the nominee.

If your nominee is selected, they will be informed prior to the awards ceremony, to allow them the opportunity to invite guests to the presentation. Recipients are expected to speak at the awards ceremony. In the case of a posthumous award, a family member or colleague will be encouraged to speak on the recipient's behalf, to recognize their contributions to the profession.

Good luck!
